Cottagers challenge road by-law

Lucky lady

This little lady, Kim Robinson 2 of Minden, won a stuffed doll as part of a province-wide humpty-dumpty competition.

Residents get help locating connections

Residents of Minden who have experienced problems in locating their sewer connections will have help in the future.

The Anson, Hindon and Minden council agreed Wednesday evening that Gene Newell, employed at the village's sewage treatment plant, will be available to help residents locate the connections on the main lines.

Earlier this year there were a number of complaints that the sewer connections, or laterals, were not in the places indicated by the directions left behind by the contractor. The homeowners complained that extensive damage and expense was being caused because of the extra digging needed to locate the connections.

An investigation by the Ministry of the Environment showed that in a number of incidents the residents had misunderstood the information supplied, resulting in the contractor starting to dig in the wrong place. In one case confusion arose because of uncertainty as to which hydro pole a measurement was to be taken from.

Council hopes the new policy will eliminate these sort of problems.

At the suggestion of Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt a letter is being sent to all contractors advising them to contact Newell at the sewage treatment plant before they start to dig. "the people," Nesbitt said, "considering the cost of renting equipment."

Residents wishing to connect to the village sewer system must pay for the cost of installing the line from the main on their street to their home. A connector has been built into the system in front of most properties.

"If they follow the directions and still don't find the sewer connection, then we have a case to take back to the contractor," Nesbitt commented.

A delegation of cottagers from Twelve Mile Lake has challenged the validity of a by-law passed by the Anson, Hindon and Minden township council earlier this year.

The delegation of close to 30 property owners appeared before the council August 22. They claimed that the closing of a portion of the township road on the west side of the lake had been carried out improperly and that the council should rescind the by-law and re-open the road.

The road in question provides access to properties on the west side of the lake. The original road followed the shore line emerging on Highway 35 at Hart Lodge near the bridge. A new road has been constructed which takes the traffic about one kilometre south of the bridge before exiting onto the highway.

The protest, which had been raised earlier this summer, had first been raised by the property owners on the west side of the lake. However, at a recent lake association meeting the cottagers obtained the unanimous support of all property owners on the lake.

Doug Funston, speaking for the association, said the group objected strongly to the method used by the council to close the road. He said the by-law had been passed "in the dead of winter" with no notice being given to the 90 property owners on the west side of the lake. "We feel the actions of the council were taken in complete disregard for the concerns of the majority of owners along the west side of Twelve Mile Lake," he commented.

Funston noted that a similar proposal had been made by the township council five years ago and that the cottagers had expressed their concerns at that time.

A lawyer for the property owners said the by-law passed in February was invalid. He said procedures laid out in the Ontario Municipal Act had not been followed. Specifically the lawyer said notice of the intention of the road closing had not been published in a local newspaper nor had notices been posted in public places.

According to the municipal act, before a road can be closed by a council, a notice must be published once a week for four weeks prior to the passing of the by-law. In smaller municipalities a similar notice must be placed in six public locations to advise the residents of the intended closing.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt told the gathering that the council had not actually closed the road, but simply blocked it to vehicular traffic. He said the road is still public property and allows pedestrians access to the dam at the bottom of Twelve Mile Lake.

Several large boulders have been placed on the roadway at the north end while a post has been placed in the centre of the road at the south end some distance from Highway 35. A portion of the road at the south end remains open to allow access to buildings at Hart Lodge.

The lawyer for the property owners claimed that the by-law closing the road had been passed in bad faith. He said the council had not acted in the interest of the public, but rather in the interest of one property owner.

The spokesman said that other aspects of the by-law, including the legal definition of the land involved and the fact that approval is required from the Ministry of Housing before a road along a waterway can be closed had not been complied with.

The lawyer hinted that the property owners may take legal action against the township because of the road closing. "Precedents have been set for residents taking such action," the spokesman commented.

He said the group believed the by-law to close the road was not legal and therefore the barricades should be removed. "We ask for council to see the error of their ways and rescind the by-law," the lawyer said.

He commented that if council wished to re-introduce the by-law the property owners would be ready to make submissions in opposition to it.

Reeve Nesbitt said the council could not pass judgement on the legal interpretation of the association's lawyer. He said the council would seek legal advice before reacting to their petition.

The reeve said however that he felt the new road provided a safer access to Highway 35 for the property owners. He noted that the Ministry of Transportation and Communications has announced plans to replace the bridge at Twelve Mile Lake and Highway 35. He said the bridge will probably be re-aligned, making the township road entrance at Hart Lodge even more dangerous.

The spokesman for the association said the group was not disputing these points at the procedure that was followed to pass the original by-law.

Councillor Stuart Brandon reacted sharply to a suggestion from one member of the delegation that council had acted in the interest of only one property owner. He denied that was the case. The reeve said there had been "nothing" between the council and the owners of Hart Lodge over the closing.

The property owners claimed that the closing of the road has caused them inconvenience, particularly when heading north on Highway 35. They mentioned the high cost of gasoline as one reason they are upset at the extra distance they must travel.

The council agreed to have a response for the association members by the September 12 meeting.

School Days

As the last few days in August come to a close, children start to look forward to their first day back to school. What had seemed like an eternity at the beginning of July is now just a memory of warm summer days well spent enjoying their reborn freedom.

And as the first day of school approaches, most people spent a few moments remembering a somewhat special time in their life when it all began.

On the first morning, a sense of fear, apprehension and down right terror may take over a small child who is being pushed out into the big world to brave it all on his own.

For some children, the situation might call for a few screams, a couple of tears and some reassuring words to alleviate the fear that accompanies a new situation.

But once they get to school, their fear disappears and the fun (and learning) begins.

In the past few weeks, teachers, maintenance staff and secretaries across the county have been preparing for the return of the masses.

There are some interesting changes in the school system in Haliburton, for a rundown of what happens behind the scenes, turn to page eight.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

Dixie Lee opens in Minden

This week-end marks the end of our summer season and the beginning of a new era for Haliburton Highlands. The Grand Opening of the new Dixie Lee Restaurant on the by-pass at Minden is a first in that it is the first major franchise operation to venture into our County. Proprietor Ken Fielding is very optimistic, as are we, that his foresight in going after this franchise will be good for him, and good for the community.

Conversations with visitors indicate that many are looking forward to the opening, and suggest that Minden will now become the place to eat on the way to and from the Highlands because of the considerable variety of establishments that are available. We expect many others with franchises in mind will be watching this new venture with considerable effort, and if it is as successful as anticipated we will see more activity of this nature.

Info centre's new hours

This summer there were three Tourist Information Centres operating throughout the County seven days a week. The Chamber office at Minden functions year round as the "Haliburton Highlands Welcome Centre" and will continue to do so. We will however be closing Sundays beginning this week-end. The Caboose in Haliburton Village has been very active this summer since it was moved adjacent to the "Rail's End Gallery." It is operated by the Municipality of Dysart and following this week-end will be open on week-ends only until Thanksgiving. The Log School Info Centre on Highway 28, just east of McGilvray Road is operated by the Municipality of Cardiff and will be closed for the season after Labour Day.

The provincial government's "Experience '79" program supplied us with one student for each of these centres during the summer to augment the regular staff. This program is administered through the Central Ontario Travel Association, and is much appreciated by the Chamber and the Municipalities that bear the balance of the expenses.

Fall management seminar

The Federal Business Development Bank has been making a number of extremely helpful workshop seminars available to members of our business community. This Spring at a well attended bookkeeping seminar there was an overwhelming demand for a future one on personnel selection, motivation and management. That seminar is now to be held on Wednesday, September 15th at the PineStone Inn, and there is still room for more participants.

Any business man or woman with even as little as one employee should be anxious to spend one day acquiring knowledge on how to get the most out of their help. As a matter of fact a recent survey showed that the number one reason for staff leaving their jobs was conflict with their superiors. It is one of the most important factors in operating a business, particularly if your staff is dealing with the public.

Cost of the seminar is only $30.00 for the first participant, and $20 for each additional participant from the same business. This fee includes all necessary materials and lunch. To register for this seminar phone Alex McLeod at the F.B.D.B., collect, at 705-748-3241.

Annual meeting

The Chamber's Annual Meeting has been set for Wednesday, October 10th and we will be providing details shortly on the time, place, and format. In the meantime it is time for any who feel they have something to contribute to our board of directors to contact either our office, or one of the existing directors and let us know. Any member in good standing of the Chamber is eligible to run for the board and we endeavour to invite representation from as many geographic areas and types of businesses as possible. Give us a call and we'll talk about it. It is your Chamber of Commerce - you should see to it that it functions the way you believe it should.

Kinmount Fair

That annual extravaganza known as the Kinmount Fair comes up this week-end. What better way to wind up the summer than with a visit to one of the finest Agricultural Fairs in Ontario. Saturday's grandstand show features the Juno Award winning Good Brothers and Sunday a Car Demolition Derby involving the Trans Canada Hell Drivers is the big attraction. With exhibits, amateur contests, horse shows, horse draws, a dance and a huge parade there is most definitely something for everyone at the Fair. See you there.

Acetylene tank explodes

A semi-trailer sustained $12,000 damage when a canister of acetylene fell over and exploded inside.

The driver, Russell Jones 38 of Peterborough, received only minor injuries in the explosion.

He was apparently backing up the 1963 tractor, with the semi-trailer attached, in the Haliburton County Roads Department gravel pit in Stanhope Township when the vehicle hit a bump.

The impact caused the acetylene tank to fall over.

The accident happened at 6:55 a.m. last Wednesday.

Investigation by Provincial Constable Smith.

Hits rock cut

A Minden man received minor injuries when he edged to one side of the road to allow an oncoming vehicle more room, lost control of his vehicle and struck the rock face on the opposite side of the road.

David Lynas, 49, was headed north on Bobcaygeon Road when the accident occurred.

His 1968 truck sustained $1,000 damage.

Investigation by Provincial Constable Al Barnes.

Shoulder collapses

A Sudbury man scraped his car along trees on the Old Ingoldsby Road last Friday morning at 3:30 when the shoulder of the road collapsed.

George Flaherty, 26, was southbound on the road when he veered too far to the left and the gravel gave away under the tires.

Damage to the 1978 car was estimated at $1,300.

Investigation by Provincial Constable Gary Chapman.

Meet on curve

Damage amounted to more than $3,800 when two cars met on a curve on highway 519 in Guilford Township last Friday afternoon.

Wayne Moorhouse, 30 of Brampton, was headed north and Donald Young, 18 of Agincourt, was travelling south when the accident occurred.

Moorhouse's 1976 car received $2,000 damage while the other 1973 car sustained $1,800 damage.

Investigation by Provincial Constable Bill Clendenning.

Car rolls

A 1975 car rolled over in a ditch after the driver lost control while apparently trying to avoid an oncoming car.

James Rogers, 16 of Harcourt, told police he met a northbound vehicle on highway 648 in Monmouth Township last week.

He then lost control of the car and it crossed the highway and rolled over then hit a fence.

Damage to the car was estimated at $2,500.

Investigation by Provincial Constable Dennis Potter.

Fishtails

A car fishtailed across Highway 35 last Saturday morning after the driver lost control on a curve and the car rolled over in the ditch finally coming to rest in an upright position.

Glenn Nangle, 18 of Dorset, was headed north when the accident happened.

The 1971 car received $900 damage.

Investigation by Provincial Constable Boyd Jarvis.

Hits tree

A 1974 car received $1,000 damage when it went out of control on a downhill curve on the Donald Road and skidded across the opposite lane and hit trees in the south ditch.

Robert Thacker, 17 of Willowdale, was westbound when he lost control of the vehicle.

Investigation by Provincial Constable Boyd Jarvis.

Any takers?

Haliburton County is on the verge of becoming, if it hasn't already, a year round vacation destination.

Perhaps nothing has done more for the growth of tourism in the winter months than the introduction of the snowmobile. In ten years the popular motorized winter vehicle has revolutionized the way people regard winter. From a season that usually saw individuals huddled indoors, afraid of the snow and ice, the snowmobile has turned the wintry landscape into a vast accessible playground. The lure has enticed people from their homes and turned the quiet season of hibernation into an active and fun time of the year.

The recent increase in the popularity of cross country skiing, coupled with such traditional activities as snowshoeing and ice fishing has added a secondary wave to the initial inundation of people looking for winter recreation.

Of course for Haliburton the change in attitude has brought a welcome flurry of winter activity. Resorts are finding it beneficial to winterize their operations and more and more cottages are being outfitted to meet the winter needs of visitors. While it is highly unlikely winter recreation will ever rival the winter influx, the new "second season" is something we should all be encouraging.

And so it is with a certain degree of dismay that we note a challenge thrown out by Roy Bates earlier this month has passed without any takers. Roy, who is the author of a snowmobile column in this newspaper entitled "Along the Trails", suggested that those resort and lodge owners, who also cater to the winter visitor, tell our summer tourists about the fun of a winter vacation. Specifically he suggested that a resort operator set up a display of winter gear or photographs in his lobby to let those passing by know that Haliburton is an enjoyable place in the winter.

Roy even sweetened the deal by offering the first resort owner who set up a display a write-up in a snowmobile magazine to be published by the provincial snowmobile association. The magazine will be read by 48,000 snowmobile enthusiasts throughout the province, many of whom will be looking for a suitable location for a snowmobiling vacation.

The magazine article prize should have been claimed a long time ago, but it is still waiting.

Chances are the same people who enjoy Haliburton in the summer would find it an equally attractive place in the winter. Now is the time to tell them what you have to offer.

Roy's challenge still stands. Are there any takers?

REPORT FROM PARLIAMENT

by William C. Scott, M.P.

During the past few years our country has been witnessing more and more serious acts of vandalism, in both the large cities and the smallest hamlets. Today's vandalism is of the most wanton, destructive and vicious kind.

There have always been pranks committed by rowdies, but the present phenomenon is quite unlike anything seen in the past, certainly in the small communities of Canada. The very serious property crimes that we are now seeing in the smallest villages and towns have usually been more characteristic of large urban centres. Today's vandalism is an unhappy aspect of the crime, violence and big-city malaise that has now spread across the country.

Vandalism is a serious crime against property. All such acts in Canada fall under the Criminal Code. The two operative sections of the code are 387, which deals with mischief, and section 388, which deals with property damage when the alleged amount of damage doesn't exceed $50.

Under the criminal Code the offence of mischief can be prosecuted by either indictment or summary conviction. Three sentences are possible when the proceedings are by indictment: if the mischief causes danger to human health, the accused is liable to imprisonment for life; if it involves public property, the maximum punishment is 14 years; and if the offence involves private property, the accused can be liable to imprisonment for five years.

In all cases of mischief, the prosecution can proceed by way of summary conviction, in which case the maximum punishment is imprisonment for six months, a fine of $500 or both. Damage under $50 caused to property is an offence punishable on summary conviction, and the maximum punishment is imprisonment for six months, a fine of $500 or both.

Vandalism is usually committed in the dead of night. It is the deed of stealth, a vicious, anti-social act that strikes at the decency, order and justness of law-abiding people. This hidden nature of vandalism is what makes it so troublesome. Vandals know who they are, and often they are known to others as well. But vandalism goes on because the crime is usually committed under cover of darkness and the vandals go about their everyday business the next day, unknown and unsuspected by the majority of others in the community.

Vandalism is indicative of a breakdown in the rules of right and wrong, crime and punishment and in the awareness and understanding that serious acts against society have serious consequences. Vandalism must be recognized as the very serious criminal offence that it is, but too often in the past, when vandals have been apprehended, they have been let off with a minimum sentence; a "slap on the wrist."

Vandalism is a serious crime that has serious life-long consequences, and our young people must be made aware of this. This awareness, and understanding of the criminal nature of vandalism must be taught at home, at school and in church. The consequences and penalties - criminal penalties - for vandalism must be well publicized and well understood. Vandalism is an offence under the Criminal Code of Canada and carries with it the stigma that all criminal acts do. A conviction for a criminal offence can affect an individual for the rest of his life.

Crimes of vandalism must be investigated and pursued with the same vigour and intensity that our police devote to assault and drug trafficking crimes. The public should co-operate fully in every way with the police and others who are investigating the acts, and when the vandals are apprehended, they should be treated as major criminals and given the maximum sentence.

In 1978 Parliament passed a Criminal Law Amendment Act which provided that an accused could be required to make restitution or reparation for injury and damage caused, and this should be required in all cases of vandalism.

Vandalism is a major crime against property, against people and against society, and should be treated as such.

A Report Card on Bankers

By W. Roger Worth

Some of Canada's small and medium-sized business people believe they are being discriminated against by the chartered banks, and they don't like it one bit.

That statement is backed by the results of a recent survey of 55,000 members of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business. More than 16,000 owner-operators of small and medium-sized firms replied, providing a realistic sample of how entrepreneurs across the country feel about their bankers.

Roger Worth is Director, Public Affairs, Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

The results of the in-depth study indicate:

*Newer small and medium-sized firms are not receiving the quality of service from bankers enjoyed by entrepreneurs who have been in business for longer periods of time.

About 75% of the operators of firms in business more than 10 years, for example, believe their bank managers understand the nature of their enterprises, vs only 65% for those running their own show for less than four years.

Further, an amazing 33% of the mature businesses surveyed had never been visited by their bank managers, vs a low, low 45% of newer firms.

The study also pinpointed the failure of banks to provide enough funds to finance accounts receivable and long-term loans backed by fixed assets, a particularly difficult problem for companies in business less than four years.

*Provincially, Saskatchewan bankers received top marks for understanding the nature of the business involved (78%). Bank managers in that province were also the most likely to have visited the client's facility (77%).

At the low-end of the scale, New Brunswick bankers have the reputation of being the worst in the country. More than half the business people surveyed claimed service was simply dreadful, with complaints about a shortage of accounts receivable funding almost double the rate in the rest of the country.

The Federation has passed on the results of the study to Canada's chartered banks and is pressing senior executives to provide better service, especially in areas like New Brunswick.

Financing is a crucial issue for small business, as well as the Canadian economy. After all, smaller firms created a majority of the new jobs in the country last year, so their health is vital to Canada's future.

Acid rain: A fundamental change in the balance of nature

This is the second in a series of articles dealing with acid rain and its impact on Haliburton. The first installment dealt with the source of the pollution. Today's article examines the effects increased acidity is having on the environment.

"Acidified precipitation has been a rather difficult environmental problem to deal with because it is a rather innocuous one. You don't find, for example, large numbers of dead and dying fish lying belly-up or rotting on the beach. There is no fuss, no muss, there is no smell. The fish quietly become extinct. It is the freshwater analogue of the book 'Silent Spring.' The fish simply fail to reproduce and become less and less abundant, and older and older until they die out. Consequently it has a very low profile. It has been hard to convince anyone there is a problem."

The words are those of Dr. Harold Harvey, a biologist at the University of Toronto. Recognized as one of this country's leading fish biologists, Professor Harvey heads a team studying 20 lakes in Haliburton. Working out of an old stone schoolhouse south of the Frost centre, the professor and his team have been documenting the destruction acid rain is bringing to fish populations in this area.

While scientists have been unable to unravel some of the mystery surrounding acidity and decreasing fish populations, the problem still remains one that will require further investigation. What is known, however, is that fish, and all aquatic life, is affected when acid levels in lakes increase, as they have been in the last few decades.

What has been discovered so far is that the greatest impact of acid rain has been on the reproductive capabilities of fish. As the pH level increases the fish lose the ability to reproduce. Any young which are born are usually deformed and do not live long.

Even fish raised in hatcheries and released into acidified waters are unable to survive.

Heightened acidity can hamper the ability of fish to take up the necessary calcium for proper bone formation. While this is the major cause of deformities in smaller fish, it can also affect adult fish. With older fish being unable to reproduce and the fingerlings not surviving to maturity, the fish population rapidly ages. As one Ministry of Environment official put it, "All that is left is the larger older fish with none coming up behind. The fish population is quietly marching off to extinction."

Other aquatic life suffers as well because of the increased acidity. All species have their tolerance level, and when the acidity reaches a certain point they are unable to reproduce, undergo changes because of the acid, or they simply die.

For example, crayfish, which are an important source of food for certain species of fish, are unable to take up enough calcium when the water becomes too acidic. The crayfish is encased in a hard outer shell which is important to its survival. Without enough calcium, the crayfish is unable to produce a hard shell. The crustacean becomes an easy target for fish and its numbers quickly dwindle.

Some links in the aquatic food chain are eliminated outright by the increased acidity. While nature may be able to compensate for the loss of certain species, when too many links are lost, the system starts to break down.

Scientists in Sweden, studying the results of acid rain in that country, have described the consequences. They note that with virtually all plant and fish life eliminated by elevated support a very basic life form. This mass of algae, moss and fungus lies, "like a layer of Astroturf" on the bottom of the lake.

Shock loading

The effects of acidified precipitation are felt most acutely in the spring. This is also the time of the year most critical in the life cycle of all species.

As the accumulated snow and ice melt, the acid load which has built up over a four month, or longer, period, is released rapidly. Any buffering capacity in the soils has little or no time to neutralize the acidity as the warm weather sends the snow and ice flowing into lakes and streams.

At the same time fish and other aquatic life are preparing to begin another reproductive cycle. The acid level of the lakes and rivers dips dramatically as the spring run-off hits its peak, interfering with the reproductive process. Ironically, as the high acidity abates, these same fish may continue to survive, but at the critical moment when a new generation of fish was to have been created, the heightened acidity intervened.

In addition to the direct consequences of acid rain on fish and plants, the phenomenon has been blamed for increasing the rate with which heavy metals are leached from the surrounding soils. This heavy metal concentration can result in death to the fish or make them unsuitable for human consumption.

Economics

It has been estimated that over $600 million in tourist spending can be directly related to sports fishing each year, on lakes in the Precambrian Shield portion of Ontario. The financial impact of the loss of fisheries for sportsmen will be felt most severely in areas that rely on the fisherman for tourist income. But there is little doubt that the economy of the entire province will be hurt if the fisheries are allowed to disappear.

In Haliburton there are few tourist operations that rely solely on sports fishing to attract visitors. However, at most tourist facilities the availability of sports fishing, (or just the chance to spend a leisurely afternoon with pole in hand), is a definite attraction to potential visitors.

Dr. Harry Parrott, the Ontario Minister of the Environment has stated, "I cannot begin to assess the economic impact of acidified precipitation on our tourism and recreation industries and on the thousands of people employed in and dependent on these industries. I have heard guesses ranging as high as half a billion dollars."

The report of the Ontario Legislature's standing committee on resource development stated, "In addition, (to the costs associated with the loss of sports fishing) affected cottagers will suffer reduced property values and business and communities involved in the tourist trade will face serious decline." A spokesman for the Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Associations, speaking before the same committee, predicted cottagers will spend less time, and hence money, "in those localities if their lakes and cottage lifestyles are made less valuable to them because of acidification."

Locally, those familiar with the real estate market have noted no great concern on the part of those buying or selling cottage property, because of the reports of the precipitation problem.

The economic effects of acid rain are still an unknown factor. Scientists are just now starting to appreciate how widespread and serious the situation is, and could be, in a few years time. While efforts are currently underway to understand the scientific processes at work, the provincial government has recently started to assess the social and economic impact. At the moment figures mentioned by officials are nothing more than guesses.

Other problems

The loss of fish and aquatic life from Ontario lakes could be the most dramatic and obvious impact of acidified precipitation however there are a number of other areas to which scientists are also turning their attention.

For example, much of the soil on the Precambrian Shield is thin and poorly equipped to buffer or neutralize the acidic rainfall. With the buffering capacity depleted or gone, the chemical composition of the soil is now undergoing a change. The increased acidity of the soil can cause more rapid leaching of certain nutrients needed by the vegetation.

Earlier this year the Haliburton County Council heard Dr. Sam Linzon of the Ministry of the Environment state, "At present there is no direct proof that ambient acid precipitation is having any significant effects on native vegetation."

Other scientists have suggested however that lack of proof of immediate damage does not mean that increased acid loads on the soil and vegetation will not have negative effects at some time in the future. "While extensive damage to Ontario lakes is expected within the next two decades, serious and widespread soil and forest effects are expected over the next 25 to 100 years if the acidity of precipitation remains at current levels," the report of the standing committee states.

Scientists have said that one possible reason for the lack of evidence of damage to vegetation, is the fact that acidified precipitation contains among other components, nitrogen oxides. The nitrogen acts as a fertilizer and may actually be masking or delaying the negative impact of the acid rain.

Further study of the terrestrial impact is now being carried out.

Elevated acid levels in area lakes does not pose an immediate or direct threat to human health. However officials have identified a number of secondary factors which are currently under investigation.

(It should be pointed out that although the word "acid" or "acidic" is used to describe the condition of a body of water it does not mean the water is now caustic.)

As mentioned earlier, acid rain can increase the movement of heavy metals, making them more readily available to fish. If the fish take up enough of these metals, and if an individual eats enough of the contaminated fish, the health of the person can be impaired. The Ontario government has been monitoring the heavy metal concentration in fish throughout the province and posting warnings to anglers where applicable.

Increased acidity can also result in more rapid corrosion of certain metals. For example, a scientist in New York State has ascertained that copper used in piping is corroded at a faster rate by water with an elevated acid level. The investigation showed that drinking water drawn from a source with increased acidity may show higher concentrations of copper, particularly if the water has stood for some length of time in the pipes. Flushing the pipes was suggested as one way of avoiding the increased copper levels.

In another area, well researched findings have shown that in regions where drinking water is acidic, greater incidences of cardiovascular disease have been reported.

Like many other facets of the acid rain phenomenon, scientists are just now starting to study the possible links to health problems. The report of the standing committee states, "...there is an absence of scientific certainty about the extent and severity of the human health effects of sulphur dioxide, sulphate particles and acidic precipitation singly or in combination."

Numbers

- some 20,295 lakes in an area stretching from Kingston through Haliburton, north of Georgian Bay and Lake Huron to the Sudbury area are susceptible to damage from acidified precipitation. Over 48,000 lakes throughout the province could be in danger.

-in Sweden, where the precipitation is slightly less acidic than it is in south central Ontario, 10,000 of the country's 90,000 lakes have been lost to acidity. It is estimated that within 20 years 50,000 Swedish lakes will be acidic.

-sources in northeastern United States contribute 15 million tons of sulphur dioxide and 24 million tons of nitrogen oxide to the atmosphere every year. Ontario's contribution has been estimated at two million tons of sulphur dioxide and 660,000 tons of nitrogen oxide per year.

-in the Adirondack recreational area of New York State, half the lakes above 600 metre elevation are now acidic and barren of fish.

Corrosion

Acid rain is known to cause increased corrosion to buildings. In Europe, statuary has been moved indoors to stop the eating away of the rock by the acid rain.

Increased corrosion of certain metals, mortar and limestone, as a result of acid rain, has been documented. In the United States, acid rain has been blamed for $2 billion of architectural and statuary damage each year.

All the threats posed by acidified precipitation are not known. What is known by the scientists is that the environment will not be able to withstand such a massive chemical input without major changes taking place.

One scientist studying the situation said a fundamental change will take place in the entire ecosystem if the acidified precipitation is allowed to continue.

Next week: we examine two solutions, one that has been described as a "stopgap" and the other, that if successful, could open the way to a new era of international environmental responsibility.

Rainfall monitors

Ron Reid of the Ministry of the Environment research team in Dorset checks one of several precipitation collectors. The ministry has been monitoring the acid levels of lakes and rainfall in Haliburton in an effort to assess the impact acidified precipitation is having on the area.

No money for daycare Farm News and Views

Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council gave the idea of a daycare centre for the village their endorsement Wednesday evening, but they refused to become financially involved in any project.

The council was responding to a petition which had been sent to the municipal body. The petition was started by Waneita Pipe earlier this month. Over thirty signatures appeared on the petition.

The petition said simply that those who signed were in favour of having a day care centre in the village.

"There is no way the council should get involved (financially)," Councillor Len Lonsberry commented after the petition was read.

Councillor Stuart Brandon said that with the support indicated by the names on the petition, it appeared the opening of a day care centre would be a paying proposition and that the council should encourage the efforts.

The council indicated that if a private day care centre were to become a reality in the community they would be willing to offer assistance through rezoning, if necessary. It was suggested the group contact the Ontario Ministry of Coimmunity and Social Services.

Merchants face Woodville

The Minden Merchants have advanced to the quarter finals in the Tri-County Baseball League. They face Woodville in a best of three series.

The first game was played Tuesday evening in Woodville. The second contest in the series will be Wednesday evening at the Minden diamond with a third game, if necessary, scheduled for Thursday in Minden.

The winner of the series will advance to a semi-final play-off.

Family could arrive soon

A formal contract has now been signed between the Minden, Carnarvon, and Coboconk churches and the federal government for the sponsorship of a refugee family from Vietnam.

The chairman of the local group, Reverend Douglas Miller, told a meeting Thursday evening in Norland that he had been informed by the federal authorities that a call could come at any time.

The Vietnamese refugee committee was established last month in response to the call for sponsors in Canada for families and individuals fleeing Vietnam. While the effort has been spearheaded by the area church, private contributions have also been accepted.

According to Miller, the group has not yet reached the requisite amount of $10,000 which they feel will be necessary to see a family through a year. He said, however, that he could see little trouble in raising the remaining portion.

Churches in Carnarvon, Minden, Norland and Coboconk as well as other communities, are participating in the fund raising drive. A donation of $1000 was made to the local efforts by the Minden Rotary Club. "This contribution is greatly appreciated," Miller commented.

Individuals wishing to make donations to the fund can do so at either of the chartered banks in Minden or through local churches. Receipts for income tax purposes will be issued for all donations received.

In Haliburton Village a number of churches are sponsoring 3 families as well.

Blossom-end rot in tomatoes
Blossom-end rot is a common problem in tomato patches across Victoria and Haliburton Counties this summer.

Many people with tomatoes in their garden are finding fruit with a brownish, sunken, dead area on the blossom end. This rot is usually dry and firm.

The cause of this problem was the dry weather we had back in July. It is not caused by a disease-producing organism, so there is no chemical treatment possible to prevent it.

Blossom-end rot usually follows drought conditions, or conditions where we get too little rain, then too much rain.

Gardeners should pick off and discard any affected fruits.

Trent Severn Waterway News

Storage of reservoir water in Haliburton lakes declined to 69.7% by Monday, August 20th. Near the end of last week, additional flow was started from Mississagua and Jack Watersheds to help replace losses occurring due to the high winds early in the week. Gauge readings during these windy conditions are somewhat unreliable so losses can't be detected as fast. Losses by evaporation are also increased by the wind. Week-end rainfalls were quite light so evaporation from the Kawarthas amounted to a little less than 4 mm per day over the week.

Evaporation from the Kawarthas began to increase this week so slightly more reservoir flow was run than last week.

Rainfall Thursday amounted to 10 mm to 12 mm over the Kawarthas and 16.5 mm in Haliburton, which ensured good levels this past week-end.

Lake Simcoe-Couchiching has declined about a centimetre over the week and no changes have been made at Washago.

The Alcohol and Drug Education Centre and the Metcalf Clinic. Two important new developments in health care for Eastern Ontario.

With the official opening, on August 20, of the Alcohol and Drug Education Centre and the Metcalf Clinic, Kingston Psychiatric Hospital will offer Eastern Ontario residents more comprehensive health care.

The Alcohol and Drug Education Centre will offer both day care and out-patient services seven days a week to help alcohol and drug abusers and their families. Employers will also be able to participate in specific programs on alcoholism and misuse of drugs.

The Metcalf Clinic is a community-oriented facility for people in need of psychiatric services who might previously have had to be hospitalized to obtain treatment. The Clinic also offers consultative and assessment advice to a variety of social and health agencies, as well as to the courts.

The Ontario Ministry of Health is pleased to have helped in the development of these important new facilities. Kingston Psychiatric Hospital will now be able to make available a wider range of health care services to the communities it serves.

Enrolment down, spirits up for first day of school

Everything, so far, seems to have come off like clockwork. It is all falling together just like a well-designed jigsaw puzzle. Just like it is supposed to.

As the final days, before the opening of both elementary and secondary schools, draws near all the members of the school system will be busily completing last minute details.

During the past few weeks, while the buildings have been empty, maintenance staff have been fixing, improving and shining; principals have been organizing and deciding; teachers have been planning and preparing lessons and the children have been anticipating what this year will hold for them.

And on Tuesday, September 4, the first day of school will begin.

While it is a whole day, September 4 won't feel like a real school does either to the students or the teachers. The re-kindling of old friendships that might have lapsed over the summer months or the reporting of newsworthy events that happened in the previous two months will make the first day back a real pleasure.

This year seems to be a little special, perhaps a reflection of the fact that this is the International Year of the Child.

In the Gooderham Public School which employs one part-time and two full-time teachers, principal Christine Bailey, along with her co-workers, is hoping to incorporate that very idea into final plans being made this week.

"It's the International Year of the Child, so we're going to be doing some planning around that theme next week," she said Friday.

As for enrolment, the numbers at the public schools seem to be leveling off with only small declines. The high school is just starting to feel the hardships of declining enrolment.

"I'm very concerned about the decline in enrolment...the high school has dropped from an all time high," Haliburton County Board of Education Director Douglas Hodgson said on Monday.

The exact figures can't be quoted as yet because the first day always brings in unexpected students or an expected student deciding not to return, according to Brian Mosgrove, principal of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School (HHSS).

"Ten to 20 students that we don't know about could come in, it doesn't sound like many but 10 students would represent an increase in enrolment of two percent," Mr. Mosgrove explained.

There will be three new staff members at HHSS this fall.

Under a new program, three county teachers have traded places for the year. Involved in the program, are Stuart Baker, Dale Robinson and McKay Brydon.

Mr. Baker, last year the principal of Archie Stouffer Public School, will be taking Mr. Robinson's place as vice-principal at HHSS. Mr. Robinson will be acting as vice-principal at Archie Stouffer School. Mr. Brydon, who last year served as vice-principal, will be moving up to the principal's position at Archie Stouffer.

A new music teacher will also be joining the staff at HHSS, to take the place of Melissa Stephens. Rick Vaughan will be filling that role. Replacing Anna English as business and commercial teacher will be Wendy Gough.

At the public school in Wilberforce another new teacher will be joining the staff. Barbara Lewis will be taking over the position from Diane Claus. This school of about 80 students employs three full-time and one part-time teachers.

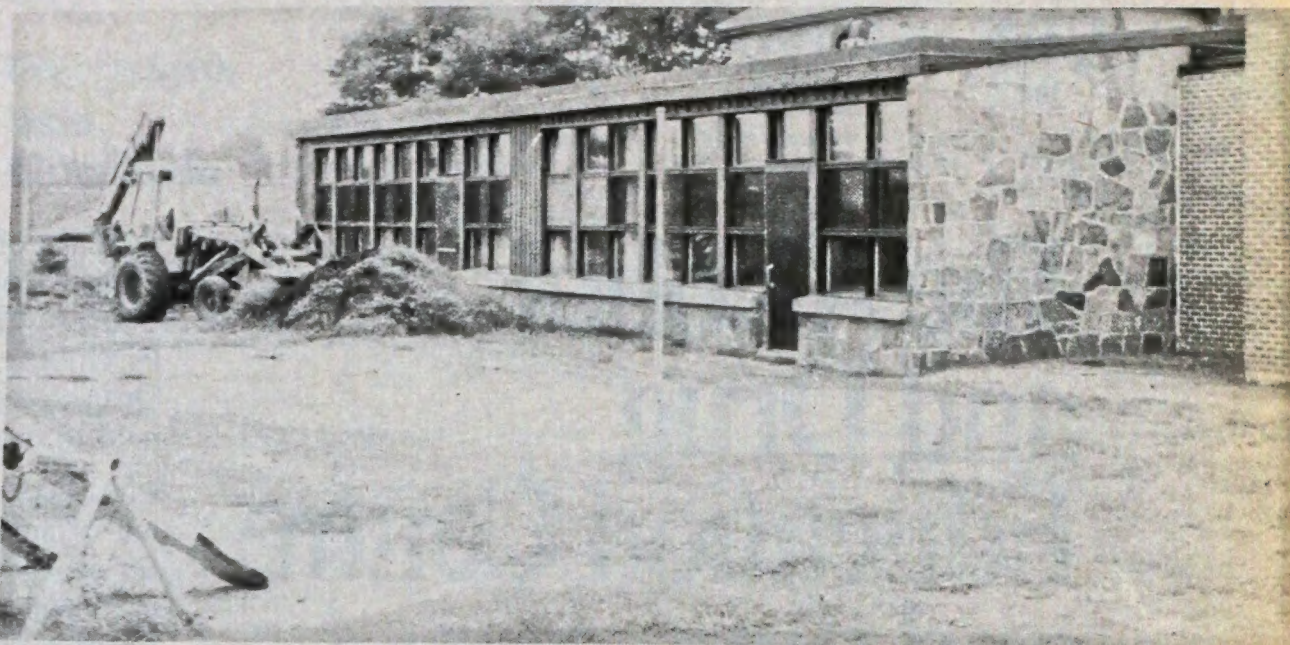

And in the easterly township of Cardiff an exciting orienteering program is to start this fall.

Over the summer, according to principal Ethel Ryan, the teachers have been busy clearing trails in the surrounding forest.

"It will help to get the students a little more ready for high school because they are involved with orienteering then," said Mrs. Ryan.

Even though the students don't register until the first day of school, Mrs. Ryan feels that the enrolment will be about the same as last year, 120 students.

All in all with the planning that has taken place and the quality of teachers employed

Little red what?

The days of the one-room, red brick school house have long since passed and the central school systems with its modern facilities has taken over.

In the olden days, it was pretty well the responsibility of the one teacher on the staff to keep the ball rolling all year long.

But today, help is available to the teachers from every direction. To begin with, an efficient maintenance staff works extremely hard all summer long to repair areas of the building and get the school in tip-top condition for the fall opening.

Next, principals provide a guiding hand to lay out the policies of the school and help in the students' guidance.

Probably most important is the help and co-operation of the parents. Special programs have been set up in schools to allow parents to assist with the instruction.

At the Victoria Street School, in Haliburton village, and likewise in the Archie Stouffer school in Minden, adults are encouraged to help with some teaching aspects, especially helping out with the 'slow-learners'.

"The teachers are really enthusiastic about the program" says Victoria Street School principal Ruth Gorrie, "parent volunteers help teach phonics, math and phys-ed".

In a couple of months when teachers decide which children need to have a little more attention in some areas Mrs. Gorrie said the school will be looking for parent volunteers.

A program, working on a similar basis, has been carried out at Archie Stouffer Public School in Minden.

Haliburton camp attracts staff members from around the world

For most camps in Haliburton, the summer season is now over. All that remains of the 1979 camping season is the memories of the good times, and for many, anticipation of next summer's activities.

The memories of one camp in particular, Camp White Pine, can now be found in virtually every corner of the world. Not only does the operation attract campers from all parts of the globe, but many of the staff members also travel from international locations to spend their summers in Haliburton.

White Pine operator for 24 years Joe Cronick, is enthusiastic about the international appeal of his camp. "This year we had about 28 staff members from overseas. This compares with a total staff complement of 175," he noted. The camp population during the summer is close to 600.

Cronick explains that many of his international staff members become aware of the job possibilities at the camp through the British University North American Club, an organization that co-ordinates students looking for and for the staff member as well."

Typical of the staff members drawn from overseas is Graham Steele, an Englishman now living in Rome. This is his third summer at Camp White Pine and he said recently that he intends to return next year.

"I find Canadians and the camp setting very friendly," he commented. "It is a different experience than one might find in Europe and it makes for an interesting summer."

Steele, a grade school teacher in Italy, is a counsellor at the camp.

Keith Moore, 18, of Carlow County in Ireland spent his first summer this year at Camp White Pine. A sailing specialist, he is eager to return next season.

Moore found out about the possibility of work at the camp through a publication available in Europe entitled, "The World Book of Summer Jobs." He is a second year B.A. student at a university in Dublin.

"It took about a week to settle in," he recalled, "but after that things went smoothly." He noted that walk into the main camp when suddenly there on the road in front of us was a bear. We turned and ran back to the road as fast as we could."

The group retreated to a house across the road from the entrance where the owner offered to drive the staff members into camp.

Moore, like most of the overseas staff members at the camp, appears to really enjoy his North American experience. One school teacher from England was unable to attend for the full eight week summer program, but made a point of coming over for the final four weeks of camping. Her salary will just about meet her travel costs and other expenses.

Many acquire friends throughout Canada and the world at the camp. Once the camp is finished for the summer, some staff take extra times to explore various parts of the world, visiting with old friends made here.

Wherever they travel and when they return home, it is obvious that the staff members take with them many fond memories of their experiences of Haliburton and Canada.

For sail

The sailing staff at Camp White Pine reflects the international mix found at the camp. The staff this summer included, from the left, Len Gordon of Montreal, Sally Tamplin of Reading, England, "Hawkeye" Horwitz of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania and Keith Moore of Ireland.

Hopes to return

This was the first year at Camp White Pine for Keith Moore of Ireland, but he is already looking forward to returning next season. He enjoyed his summer in Haliburton including an unscheduled confrontation with a bear.

work on both sides of the Atlantic and vacancies in various countries. Camp White Pine registers each year with the organization and as a result receives applications from the British Isles, Switzerland, Belgium, Israel, Denmark, New Zealand, Australia, the United States, Ireland and, until last year, from Iran.

"Some of our staff were previously campers here," Cronick explains. "After seeing them for a number of years as campers we know whether they would be good additions to our staff and we welcome their return."

"The international nature of the staff enriches the life of the camp," Cronick stated. "These people from overseas bring with them their varying cultural background, native songs and dances. It turns out to be a broadening experience for those attending the camp

Canadians don't mix as quickly as the people in Ireland but, in general, he found the population to be friendly.

Moore also found the higher standing of living to be a major bonus. "You can do more and enjoy more," he said. While the sailing in Haliburton is totally different from his experiences on the Irish Sea, Moore still ranked the canoe and sailing trips as high points of his summer. "I enjoy the Canadian wilderness and would like to return in the winter to see what the land is like then," he said.

It is certain that at least one aspect of the Canadian wilderness has made an indelible impact on Moore. He explains, "We were returning from a night in town and our ride had just dropped us at the gate on the highway. The group began the one mile

Cleaner main street

The downtown streets of Minden Village should be a little cleaner for the remainder of the summer following a discussion on the matter at the meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council August 22.

The matter was brought to the attention of the council by Councillor Stuart Brandon. Noting that he had complained about the problem in the past, the councillor said that both businessmen and residents had commented to him about the inadequacy of the street cleaning.

He suggested that a system be instituted which would ensure that all sections of the main street get a regular, thorough cleaning. He pointed out that the present cleaning program seems to favour one end of the street.

"The cleaner always starts near the bridge and by the time he gets the job half completed the morning traffic has moved in and it is impossible to sweep around the parked cars," Brandon stated.

Brandon said that residents and merchants are spending time cleaning the sidewalks and the streets. He suggested that if the cleaning of the street were to be carried out earlier in the day or if a schedule was instituted to ensure that all sections of the street get proper cleaning there wouldn't be as much litter on certain sections of the downtown street.

The councillor pointed out that Peck Street has recently been treated with a tar mixture, which should reduce the problem of sand on the main street.

"If we have a policy that the municipality is going to keep the streets clean, then we should ensure that it is being carried out," Brandon stated. "If we're not going to have it done properly we should abandon the policy." The councillor said he had been receiving complaints throughout the summer regarding the condition of downtown streets.

The proposal received the support of all members of council. Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt said there was little reason the sweeper couldn't start on the downtown area at six each morning to ensure the work could be completed before cars are parked along the thoroughfare. "There is no point in attempting to clean the streets at 9 a.m.," the reeve said.

The council agreed to have the street cleaning operation start two hours earlier each day to ensure the work can be completed.

M o E concerned about dump fires

The Ministry of Environment has expressed concern about the number of fires occurring at the Minden garbage dump.

In a letter read to the August 22 meeting of the Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council, the ministry stated it had received a number of complaints, presumably from individuals residing in the area of the dump, about the fires. The letter noted that it was not ministry policy not to reveal the source of the complaint.

The letter said a ministry official would be attending the next meeting of the council to discuss the problem at the dump.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt, responding to the comments in the letter said the township operation was one of the cleanest in the area.

The question of who is responsible for setting the fires at the dump was also discussed. It was noted that brush is sometimes burned at the base of the dump face and that this could be the source of the fire.

However, Nesbitt suggested that a more likely source would be individuals who visit the dump and, for example, may not want certain papers to be left lying about and will set them on fire. Other fires, he suggested, might be started by vandals.

"AWAKE JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES"

Concerning the topic of "Blood Transfusions". What the scriptures forbid under the Mosaic Law was the partaking of the blood of animals, not humans - and it was through the DIGESTIVE system, not the CIRCULATORY system (as related to transfusions). For an easy-to-understand chart (free of charge), showing these two comparisons of verses from the Bible, which the Watch Tower Society use in support of their theory, write to us and we will mail one to you.

Remember: God's word, the Bible, is our basic source of authority, and we are exhorted to "Make Sure of All Things" as the Bereans did in Acts 17:10,11, even if such is contrary to "Watch Tower" teachings.

"Gathering of Makers" worthwhile Guild

Thirty-two artists from all across Ontario, attending the "Gathering of Makers" conference in Haliburton were hosted by several members of the Guild at a pot-luck supper held at the Rail's End Gallery on Monday evening. This was the first time this group had met together and it proved to be a very rewarding experience.

Eskimo art

Beginning Tuesday, August 28th and continuing until Saturday, September 22nd we will have on display a collection of Eskimo sculptures, prints, clothing, dolls, rugs, etc. in our Rail's End Gallery in Haliburton.

This is the collection of Mr. Ray Goulet now residing in our area and operating a restaurant at Haliburton Lake. We are very pleased to bring this exhibition to Haliburton and hope that everyone in the county will take advantage of the opportunity so see this magnificent show.

THE ANNUAL MUNICIPAL ENUMERATION STARTS NEXT WEEK

The annual municipal enumeration will begin on Tuesday, September 4, 1979. During this month, an enumerator, carrying a proper identification card, will call at your residence for a few minutes to check basic information required in determining:

- the allocation of education property taxes between the public and separate school systems;
- the distribution of provincial grants to local governments to help reduce local tax bills;
- the preparation of jurors' lists; and
- population information needed for other municipal programs.

The enumerator must record such information as the name, age, property status (e.g. owner or tenant), school support and residency of all members of the household.

When the enumerator visits, please check that the information on the Enumeration Notice is correct. If it is not, revise it and verify the changes.

If you are not home, a Notice will be left for you. If changes are necessary, please make them and mail the Enumeration Notice, as soon as possible, in the self addressed postage prepaid envelope accompanying the Notice. For any additional information, please contact the local assessment office.

R YOU KEEPING UP

by Linda English

Saturday at noon, we began another week of activities at Hyland Crest.

Several residents boarded the bus and we made our way to Stanhope for the first annual Festival of Fun. We had an early lunch before leaving and arrived at Stanhope in time for the official opening. After the speeches, we were served a lovely assortment of goodies and tea.

Many of our residents were very pleased to chat with Mr. Charlie Fader who was the guest of honour. Mr. Fader is Stanhope's oldest citizen. He is 99 years old and is now residing at Extendicare in Haliburton.

Tuesday morning at 10 a.m. we were pleased to welcome Rev. Miller of the United Church in Minden to lead the service in the Chapel.

After lunch we had a game of bingo in the main lounge.

The Anglican Church Women of Minden brought a delicious lunch and served tea at the Thursday afternoon tea party. They served a lovely assortment of tea breads and cheese. We spent a most enjoyable afternoon, visiting with these ladies during the tea.

Friday morning a good number of people again boarded the bus and we were off on a picnic to Furnace Falls. We took with us a delicious variety of salads prepared by Mark Schell and his kitchen staff.

We sat around the picnic table and helped ourselves. Being out in the fresh air gave everyone a hearty appetite.

After lunch, we had several games of horseshoes, and were thoroughly enjoying the sun, when it disappeared and down came the rain. We got on the bus, and took the long way home via Tory Hill to Haliburton and home to Minden. On the way we sang up a storm while the Hyland Crest Volunteer Band accompanied us on the kazoos. Even though the rain shortened our stay at the beautiful little park by the river, the residents commented on how much they enjoyed their day out.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Stuckless celebrated a belated 50th Wedding Anniversary and "Welcome to Canada Party" with guests from England, Florida, Toronto, Cannington, Barrie and Minden.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Kernohan recently were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Deacon of Oakville. Karen and Michael Bibeau and baby of Port Perry, Cindy and Julie Kernohan of Whitby and Tony Kernohan of Oshawa.

Several weddings on Saturday with best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. David Pink (nee Judy Lauder) at Orillia, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fearrey (nee Rachael Schell) and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Martin (nee Norma Read).

Joanne Jarrett was the lucky winner of the Jackpot of $250 at Rotary Bingo last Tuesday August 21, in 57 numbers. Congrats!

There are several people who are in hospital or have come home, good wishes to Warner Casey, Mrs. Gilbank, May Wright, Margaret McCallum and also Alec Hewitt.

Mrs. Harry Austen and Matthew are home after a pleasant visit with Brenda and Tim Carrol of Orient Bay.

Saturday afternoon, a very small crowd joined Rick Avery and took part in his Home Made Musical instruments. You surely missed some fun. He has a book and this will be available at Minden Branch very soon.

Bill Hart of Woodstock visited Mr. and Mrs. Phil Robinson and he reported bad conditions in the area where he lives, following the serious storms.

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Mrs. Gordon (Pete) Sawyer, and Sidney Wessell whose funerals were last week.

Mary and Lyman Cox enjoyed a Sunday visit with the Alan Cox's and the Ron Cox's at Peterborough.

Grace and Lorne Coburn are home after a holiday with relatives at Winnipeg.

Sue and Brian Sisson spent the weekend at Ajax visiting the Richard Parisottos.

Doris and Jim Grant left last week for a fishing trip in the north.

Several couples have been on holiday, Susan and Bill Beers and Marg and Claud Brown all away in Scotland.

Women's Institute members are asked to get their names in for the annual Fall Bus Trip before 15th of September. Call Annie Kernohan at 286-1648 evenings.

Don't forget the Horticultural Society meeting is at the Municipal Building (upstairs) on September 4th at 7:30.

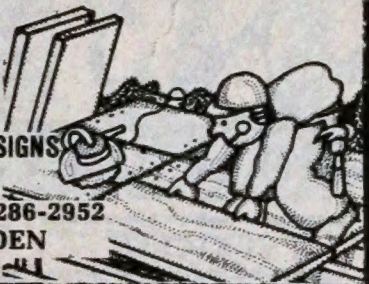

There was a party at the home of Eileen and Paul O'Brien on Saturday, August 25 on the occasion of their 40th Wedding Anniversary. Their family, Bill, Diane, Gerry, Steven, Terry and their families were all present as well as Eileen's sister and her husband Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Calnan of Toronto. There were 50 people present enjoying the delicious buffet supper. The community adds belated good wishes to this happy couple.

We notice that there is a walk-way up to Hyland Crest now, if you keep to the right and this goes on up the street in front of Holiday-Rhodes home and comes out at the front entrance. Now will it be kept open all year? Good walking though, so anyone can visit friends at Hyland Crest Home now.

Feels like September weather but only minor frost so far. Most people are busy with canning, pickling or storing their crops. Cheerio until next time.

AN APOLOGY
The other day my car stopped running properly, not getting enough gas, it limped to the nearest garage. They quickly found the trouble in the fuel pump, but it took several days to locate a new one.

After a pump was finally located I noticed a car allowance clause in my automobile mechanic repair agreement which allowed me $10 towards paying for the use of another car if I needed it.

Overlooking the fact that I had gotten along the whole time without a car I propositioned the manager to collect it for me. I was promptly rebuffed for trying to cheat. He was right, of course and I publicly offer my humbler apology to him and to God for having to cast yet another sin at the foot of the cross of Christ my redeemer who died for me.

Stephen S. Thorlakson.
